STATE POLICE IN CULT PROBE SHOTS FIRED IN DRUG ARRESTS

State police were asked today to investigate the School of Sacred Science, dealing with "life problems and mysteries," which Greater Boston men and women seek to establish here.

This follow-up action started in the Cambridge City Council to block the granting of a charter of incorporation to the cult by Secretary of State Francis W. Pickens.

Another feature today was an announcement that Vermont selectmen have endorsed the application for incorporation made by Saml. Joyce of No. 412 Washington street, Weymouth, and thirty-five others. The Joyce woman is the only Weymouth resident whose name appears among the applicants.

When asked about the board's endorsement today, one selectman said he understood the School of Sacred Science to "have something to do with Christian Science," and when informed his understanding was wrong, he appeared a bit annoyed.

The Greater Boston school is planned as a branch of the original one founded in Los Angeles in 1921 by Ralph M. de Bili, self-styled occult psychologist, metaphysician and author.

Women are said to predominate in the Boston branch of the cult, which pending incorporation by the state, has its headquarters in Bay State road, Back Bay, established when he left, who was with officials here under the auspices of the Metropolitan Club, quarreled with officials of that organization.

Women will appear both for and against the charter at a hearing Monday afternoon before the Cambridge City Council.

N.Y. Gets Dempsey-Turney Bout

TEX TO STAGE TITLE CONFLICT IN YANKEE STADIUM ON SEPT. 16

Chicago, July 27 (A.P.)—Jack Dempsey will defend his title as world's heavyweight champion against Gene Tunney in the Yankee Stadium, New York, September 16, according to an announcement made in Chicago today by Tex Rickard, New York promoter.

Rickard said he was confident the New York Commission would approve the proposed bout at a meeting today and that he would immediately launch plans for the title clash.

He said he received a short before noon today a long-distance telephone call from his associate, William F. Carey, vice-president of the Madison Square Garden Association, to the effect that the New York Commission had asked Carey to appear before the commission this afternoon.

Rickard said it was his belief the commissioners would suggest that Carey immediately ask for a permit for the bout.

"I told Carey to go ahead and ask for the permit," Rickard said.

Rickard said R. G. Clements, who claims to hold a binding contract with the champion to fight Harry Wills this fall in Chicago, did not "have a leg to stand on." Rickard said he had positively assured him of this.

Rickard said he regretted Chicago had lost the fight, that he will be the winner of the bout-fight for it and that the show in Chicago would have asked Carey to appear before the commission this afternoon.

COAKLEY IN SHARP COURT SKIRMISH

"A fake or a forgery" was the characterization made by Daniel H. Coakley of his supposed signature on a paper acknowledging receipt of $150,000, according to his own testimony today in Suffolk Superior Court, where he is being sued by Mrs. Oda Pappathanos of Allston for $500,000.

The woman claims that Coakley settled a breach of promise action, which she had pending against a wealthy Maine lumberman, for $150,000, but told her he only got $200 from the bank.

"When you discussed the $150,000 matter with an attorney for Mr. Blank the lumberman last July, did he say anything about the release purported to have been signed by you?" asked Attorney William H. Garland, counsel for Mrs. Pappathanos.

"Yes," replied Coakley, defending himself, as both counsel and witness, on the stand.

"Did you say it was a fake or a forgery?"

"Yes."

"Did he tell you it looked like three other signatures on papers signed by you?"

"He might have," said Coakley.

Coakley then denied saying that, in acknowledging receipt of the money from Mr. Blank, he meant to be filled in with the proper amount to Blank's attorney.

RE HARRY FLOREY.

Paris, July 27 (I.N.S.)—The cabinet, President Doumergue presiding, today unanimously approved Premier Poincaré's ministerial declaration and his financial program.

"Poincaré then went before the Chamber of Deputies and read his declaration," Mr. Barthelemy said.

In the first reference to the interrelated debts, the declaration read:

"The nations which are our creditors, and when France has the firm will to pay within every measure of her capacity, have as great an interest as ourselves that we should, before everything, put an end to the monetary crisis. This crisis is due to multiple causes but it is in no way impossible to calm its violence and to annihilate its dangerous effects."

"We make no pretense at being able to solve the problem in a few days or in a few months, but we must take the first steps at once."

"In order not to run the risk of new inflation we will use only supplementary issues which are indispensable."

"Our ministry was formed in the spirit of national reconciliation, in order to solve the danger, and to give the liberty of our treasury and the value of our money."

"Probably later, other questions may arise upon which we have different opinions, but today we are in complete accord on the necessity and urgency and the manner of saving France's finances."

"France has known more grave and more painful moments than this and she saved herself by a union of energy. Today it is the same condition which will bring victory."

MRS. ODA PAPPATHANOS Boston woman in suit for half-million charges Daniel H. Coakley collected $150,000 from a Maine lumberman in her behalf and gave her only $5,000.

Revere's financial situation is to be investigated thoroughly today as a direct outgrowth of the storm session of the Revere City Council.

This storm followed City Solicitor John D. Dwyer's request for an appropriation of $1,000 to fight tax delinquents. During the session the word "liar" was freely tossed about several times.

The actual burning of the storm, however, came with the knowledge that poll tax bills which should have been paid June 15, had not yet been mailed out by Tax Collector Ernest Acker, or had Mr. Acker been seen in his office all day.

Jilted Pawtucket Maid Calls Ex-Fiance "Coward"; She Didn't Wed Him

Pawtucket, R. I., July 27.—A strain of negro blood in her veins has kept attractive, 20-year-old Elsie Harkins from becoming a bride.

Though her banns had been published once, and she had been guest of honor at two "showers," Elsie did not become the wife of James Coffey, No. 484 Pleasant Valley, Pawtucket, on July 14, the day they were set for the nuptials.

The strain of colored blood and the prospective bridegroom's mother soured the romance.

"I've now got a new idea through with it; my color should not have made any difference if I were married for him at first, but how can I be married now?"

A few days before the scheduled wedding, Elsie and Jimmie called on Mrs. Coffey and told her the news. Jimmie's father has been dead since before he was born," she said, "and I have been both mother and sister to him. I want it to be prevented this marriage as it would ruin his misery and poverty to let him marry."

WAITS 10 YEARS TO KNOW WHAT GIRL'S NOTE SAID

Paris, July 27 (A.P.).—While in the trenches of Northern France, Achille Guiragues received a pair of comfortable wooden socks with a note pinned to them, part of a gift assignment from the United States and Canada.

For ten years Achille has served the note carefully, hoping some time someone would visit his little home town of St. Flour who could translate the note, for it was written in English, of which he knows not a word.

Recently a party of Americans stopped at St. Flour for a weekend, and Achille waited on them and their driver from his pocket a well-worn note, and extracted from it a folded bit of paper, brown around the edges and deeply creased.

"Dese, Madam," Achille asked one of the women, "Can you tell me what this writing is?"

The woman translated the note into French: "Here's hoping the best life." The note was signed by Florence Stierman, Alameda, Saskatchewan, Canada.

"I've wanted so long to know," said Achille. "Now these were the warm socks. Now I can write and thank her for them."

GASTON TO WALSH

Chairman McGuire Announces Nomination Papers Will Be Circulated at Once

Gaston and Walsh! These will be the standard bearers of the ticket which the Democrats of Massachusetts hope will defeat the political aspirations of Senator William M. Butler this Fall.

Captain William A. Gaston for Governor, and David I. Walsh for United States Senator, campaign day State Democracy's shock troops against Butler and Governor Fuller. Colonel Gaston agreed at a conference with Mr. Walsh and State Chairman Charles H. McGuire to become candidates for Governor. Neither Gaston nor Walsh would make any formal statement or announcement of their candidacies after the conference, but Mr. McGuire said he was authorized to begin at once to obtain signatures for the filing of their nomination papers.

It is believed possible that John F. Kennedy will be in Europe, spoken as a possible candidate for Democratic nomination for Governor, will consent to run as candidate for lieutenant governor on the Gaston-Walsh ticket.

Democratic leaders also are hopeful they can persuade John J. Cummings to run as candidate for Governor. Mr. Cummings has announced his ambition to lead a fight for the Democrats against Fuller as a "wet" candidate.

BREWSTER RAPS 'WET' STATES

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 27 (A.P.).—Governments no longer exist merely to preserve order, but to preserve jobs, also, in the view of Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, as expressed in the opening address of the Governors' Conference.

Most of the nation's life is economic, only half of America is industrial capacity is utilized, and States' rights are receding under economic and other pressure, he declared.

The profit system must be made to function smoothly and efficiently or it will have to go, the Governor declared.

DEDHAM AND WESTWOOD
Failure of the Board of Public Utilities to issue a permit to the Dedham and Westwood bus line, has caused a great deal of discussion in both towns to wonder whether the bus line will operate the line here or whether the Franklin and Dedham Trolley Company, which ceased operating its line here a year and a half ago, will put it back.

New York, July 26.—Rudolph Valentino, from his suite at the Ambassador Hotel, had nothing to say today as to the meaning of his appearance at Texas Guinan's night club with Jean Ackers, his first wife, who divorced him several years ago.

He did say, however, that the slave bracelet he wears, about which considerable has been said lately, was the gift of Miss Ackers.

FOUR BEAT UP
TAXI DRIVER

Warren B. Keyes of Doney street, Roxbury, a taxi driver, was found semiconscious on the curb in front of No. 24 Huntington avenue today after he was hauled from his cab and unmercifully pummeled by four men.

Keyes was taken to Peter Bent Brigham Hospital with severe contusions of the abdomen and possible internal injuries, while the police of black bay station began an investigation.

A search of at least one of the quartet is expected, as the police believe they know him. Police Lieutenant Frank Sullivan assigned two special officers in plain clothes to hunt him.

The taxi man is thought to have turned the anger of the gang by refusing to take them anywhere but home, as required by police regulations, because they were drunk.

The police were notified in a telephone call from an unknown source and rushing to the scene they found Keyes beside his cab.

BORAH GETS
DENTAL CLINIC IS OPENED

Washington, July 27 (Universal).—Terms for an immediate settlement of the Pascale, N. J., textile strike were laid before Senator William E. Borah of Idaho by Alfred Winslow, strike leader, and a committee of strikers.

Under the plan Borah is to act as an informal mediator. Calling at Borah's office, the delegation held before him their proposal for a settlement. Borah declined to reveal the terms pending arrival of representatives of the mill operators of Pascale.

They will submit a counterproposal, it was understood.

Senator Winslow, the delegation consisted of Gustav Deak, strike committee secretary, Frank Clinton, W. J. Lusk and Miss Helen Todd, representing the women's mediation committee of New York and New Jersey.

The Monday evening dental clinic at the Boston Dispensary opened with an attendance of 11. These included holders of families, whose wages are small and to whom dental treatment, while absolutely necessary to preserve health, must still be regarded as a luxury. Objections to the clinic were made too big a hole in the weekly pay envelope. The dispensary has purposely made the fees low to meet the financial condition.

Dr. Charles M. Proctor, Dental Surgeon-in-Chief at the dispensary, assisted by Miss Madeline Ackers was in charge of the clinic and was dental hygienist, a graduate of Forsyth Dental School.

The clinic was looked up well ahead and will be opened additional evenings as the attendance increases. One hundred and fifty patients, from one of the largest cities, who have already had a physical examination, are on the waiting list and will be taken in rotation.

RECHAPMAN SET FOR CINCINNATI RING TESTS

Hub Star Is Favorite Over Herman Tonight

By JACK CONWAY
RED CHAPMAN should be the little sliver tonight! The little Irish welterweight from Larchmont battles Ben Herman of California in a two-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium, Long Island City, N. Y., as part of the plan of the New York Boxing Commission to give a new king for the featherweight division.

Chapman has been made a favorite in the betting. Those gamblers who risk their cash on the result of ring combats are of the opinion that Red Chapman will conquer his opponent. Chapman has been in New York since Sunday. He is in the best of condition after two weeks of the open air training camp at the Pine Grove Inn, Marlboro, Mass. He was also at the Queensboro Stadium last night when he defeated the former champion of the world, Jimmie Donlin, in a two-round bout.

He was also at the Queensboro Stadium last night when he defeated the former champion of the world, Jimmie Donlin, in a two-round bout.

Chapman will be carrying a heavy burden in the New York tournament. If he wins over Herman tonight he must then take on another leading challenger, Benny Bass or Chico Stages will be the selection. It is possible that Red will be obliged to fight three or four featherweights other than Herman.

Bass is considered the most dangerous rival for Chapman. The New Bedford featherweight has won the New Bedford title over the Dorchester fighter in a two-round bout. Bass has been in New Bedford for the remainder of the week. The New Bedford title has been held by Red since he won it in a two-round bout.

Chapman is also expected to make 125 pounds for the title bout. Red, however, is manager, will not permit Pinner to make the featherweight. He is for an ordinary tune, but if the fight is made he will make 125 pounds. Red is also expected to make 125 pounds.

WHILE Chapman, Herman, Bass, Pinner, and Stages are in the city, the rest are waiting for the featherweight crown. Johnny Dundee is spending long Broadway telling the world he is the ruler of the boxing division. Dundee won the championship from Virgil at 126 pounds. He later won the New York Boxing Commission title in a two-round bout. Dundee is also expected to make 125 pounds.

JOHNIE HENK OF Cleveland and Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, who are in clash in the main bout of 10 rounds at the Queensboro A.C. show on Friday night will arrive in Boston early tomorrow morning.

Both plan to put the finishing touches to their training here, and start tomorrow in the local gymnasium. This will give the followers of the sport a chance to look them over—to form their own conclusions as to the probable outcome of the coming fight.

Both are very anxious to make good here, as they hope to get south with Jack Sharkey and Jim Maloney, and he is sure to turn out on Friday night. A defeat here will not be a big deal, despite his recent victories over Benches and King Solomon.

Loughran is in much the same position. He is building up a fight with Delaney for the light weight title. He is in the same position. He is building up a fight with Delaney for the light weight title. He is in the same position.

Tourville, Sub-ber, France, July 27.—Mlle. Lengien is in a quandary about going to the United States.

Furthermore, she is of no certain mind about turning professional.

The temperamental tennis star has the idea of going to the United States with the International News Service, prior to the arrival of C. C. Pyle, American sports promoter.

But she is not sure that she can induce Suzanne to make an American tour, holding forth as an Inducement the huge sums that he was wont to take into his pocket.

He had proved that he was a fighter with courage. Of course, Dempsey was genuine like that. We didn't have to fear on that score.

He had proved that he was a fighter. There remained only the doubt as to the scuttles in his chin. He could be the bravest of the brave and still not be able to take one on the lip.

We had him in great condition on the night of the fight. It was to be a four round bout.

Bob Fitzsimmons the rest of them had been, but Jim Jeffries was the best I saw in California in those days, not only me but me too. I had seen him fight as a rule.

Bettors Make Gunner Favorite

We went into the ring on the short end at 2 to 1. Despite the fact that Gunner met the Dempsey challenge, the wise man would've had too much on the youngster and they laid it on the line good and thick. Where was one of the best betting figures they were making? Three to one on the sports.

"I want you to do one thing in the fight," I said to Dempsey before the fight. "I want you to get up and fight. I don't want you to hear that bell, I want you to get up and go fighting on the run. Keep on fighting. Say, you'll be all over this champ. He doesn't like crowd ing."

"Above all, don't sleep back with this fellow. Make up your mind to get up, rank to go and keep going. That's important."

"I don't want to get up and fight," he said. "I don't want to get up like that. Off the chair or off the floor, get up fighting. I know I won't like that. No man does but the Gunner takes it awful. I know him back home. He's a real fighter. He's a real champion."

"The world?"

"No," I said. "You must get slapped over in this way," and Dempsey, "I want you to promise one thing. No towel! I don't want to go up that way. If I have to go, I'll take mine on the chin and be satisfied that I've done my best."

"Don't throw one in even if I is to save my life. I want to win this fellow but he must walk me through and through before I'll hand in a towel. I promise me that, Jack?" And promised there'd be no towels.

was a revelation to me!

FOR a long time, I wouldn't admit that anybody could tell me anything about tobacco. I was satisfied with the brand I was smoking. At least, I thought I was. And then one day, I borrowed a pipe-load of Prince Albert from a fellow passenger in the smoking-car.

To make a long story short, that experience revised all my previous notions about tobacco. The very first puff told me that I had been missing something good up till that moment. It was cool and refreshing as a breath of mountain air. It was sweet and fragrant.

I was ready to admit right then and there that you can teach an old dog new smoke-tricks. When the train pulled in at the station, I bought me a tidy red tin of P. A. for myself. Since then, I've thrown away enough empties to make a fair-sized tin garage.

Maybe you think that you are all set on a smoke-program. I just want to leave this thought with you: until you have smoked P. A., you have no idea of how that old pipe of yours can perform with real tobacco. Give Prince Albert a chance in your jimmy-pipe.

A Thrilling Story of Night Life and Night Clubs; A Mad Whirl of Adventure

"I don't want to see you or hear any more of your insults," Joelyn declared fiercely.

Joelyn Poe, daughter of a proud, but impoverished Virginia family, wants a career, not marriage. Her mother wants her to wed. The wild blood of a line of daring women runs in her veins. She wants adventure. A seeress tells her of the "wildness" in her blood. She goes to a dance. She determines she will settle her problem that night—to marry George Ransom, well-to-do, but no dandy, or go to New York in seek of adventure. She meets a stranger at the dance.

Milton Stein, the stranger, advises Joelyn to go to the city and to dance. Joelyn, hungry and discouraged, is heard weeping by Kittie Lane, a manicurist. Kittie gets Lee Rogers, a friend, to invite them to dinner.

While the girls are at the table with Rogers, James Kelvin movies star, attempts to cultivate Joelyn's acquaintance. There is a near row with Rogers. Kelvin goes away leaving with Joelyn a sense of some strange influence over her. A few days afterward Kittie is brought home blind from bad booze. Joelyn rushes to Stein's Academy to take a job as a "Fad Dancer" to care for Kittie. In the academy she meets Stearns Bates, a man-about-town, who offers to go to Kittie's help.

Kittie's life and sight are saved by the doctors secured by Bates. They both go to a party at Bates'. Kelvin is there. He kills Bates in a quarrel.

Kittie saves Joelyn by telling the police that the death row was over her.

CHAPTER VIII.
JOSEPH and James Kelvin started on the telephone shouting alarm as the telephone shattered their entrance. Kelvin stopped in his tracks, the arms that had been outstretching toward Joelyn slowly sinking. Fear, more potent than passion, drove the flush from his face, tightened suddenly the breath in his lungs.

Tensed to the breaking point, the same awesome word chilled in the mind of each. Police! Not that, overheard as they were, was capable of reasoning that the police would not telephone if they suspected Kelvin's presence.

Joelyn fell the cooling return of self-possession. She lifted the receiver from the hook. "Get!"

"Good morning!" The voice over the wire was clear and firm, alive with strength. "I've just arrived at the Grand Central Station—was having breakfast when I saw the morning newspapers."

"The voice was eloquently familiar. It was the plain voice of the girl who recognized me. Remember the night at the Gullwing Blind? I phoned Kittie Lane first thing and got your telephone and address. Kittie's all right—she's worried about you."

DISGRACE REVENDED FOR NAVY

Early Contract Is Expected; R. W. Child Is Another Visitor at White Pines

White Pines Camp, N. Y., July 27.—Two visitors of more than passing interest arrived as a visit to President Coolidge at his Summer White House here today.

The first to greet Ford, son of the famous automobile manufacturer, the owner of the Ford Motor Co., was the late Admiral Mahan, who had come to the camp to discuss the construction of a duralumin ship. This ship is to be built for the Aircraft Development Corporation of Detroit, a Ford-controlled organization.

The Navy, for which the ship is intended, would pay, until the bill $100,000 down and $100,000 more when the company demonstrates the ability of the ship to fly. Plans call for a ship 200 feet long, 20 feet wide, and 10 feet high, with a maximum speed of 100 miles an hour.

DOON TO SIGN
In the opinion of the naval officials, the ship is a masterpiece of engineering. It is the next to the world's largest ship, and is expected to be the largest ship ever built. It is expected to be the largest ship ever built.

COOLIDGE ASKS TOLERANCE
Paul Smith's N. Y., July 27 (AP).—President Coolidge hopes that Americans abroad will make allowances for conditions in the foreign countries they are visiting and will not indulge in any unwarranted criticisms or any recriminations.

The position of the President was made clear in the matter at the executive offices today, without, however, any direct reference being made to the demonstrations that have occurred against American tourists in France.

Doubt was expressed in behalf of the President whether too much attention need be paid to the situation that has been reflected in recent news reports from Europe. The desire of the United States is to be at peace with all countries and the belief was expressed that the United States is not to be a party to any irresponsible persons of the United States or foreign countries should not be treated too seriously.

THE SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

By Helen Rowland

VERILY, verily, the mysteries of the Summer hotel are not in the chicken pie, neither are its prices all in the hash.

One week day is like unto another week day, full of boredom, but Saturday arrieth, bringing the shucks and the husbands from the city.

Then do the matrons powder their noses nightly and the matrons dim their wedding rings and bind their husbands to them with looks of steel. Their eyes are full of lightning.

The new young man arrieth on Wednesday. The damsel take no lice, but are coy and non-committal. His timorous arrieth the next day. The damsel are thrilled—and he receiveth the Grand Mum.

The self champion appeareth clad in white knickers and harem-style stockings. The Aurora Borealis were not more dazzling. The damsel whisper among themselves, saying, "Oh be joyful! Lead us to it!"

But the hotel clerk dasheth their hopes, saying, "His WIFE IS here, now!"

And when next he approacheth, he perceiveth not what the damsel are so distant.

The handsome youth with the good shoulders and the glossy hair cometh. But beside him there is a bobbed haired woman. The damsel jaw set, saying, "Alas, what doth it profit us?"

The clerk observe them, saying, "Go to! It is only his mother." The damsel grasp their powder puffs and rush to don their most startling bathing suits.

The collegiate shik arrieth, and his ways are fresher than garden lettuce. His blazer brighter than a vaudeville joke, and his "line" newsier than his skunk. He is harder to ignore than a seasonal.

The Summer widower cometh and his compliments are staler than last year's song and less convincing than canned soup.

One man cometh and another goeth, but the ELABORATE Tiding departeth always on Monday morning. One bellhop goeth and another cometh—and always after the week-end and up. One waiter disappeareth and another taketh his place, and to remember their names causeth brain-fog.

Brush shall pass away, and frocks be removed with lemon-cream; but how shall the water-wit and the pianos bore the FRIED from their places beside the blonde beauty and the dimpled dapper?

Verily, verily, life at the Summer hotel is all snail and weariness and the passing of days, and the shattering of hopes.

Do You Know That

Sheep men in Wyoming have discovered that the coyotes and wolves have abandoned the ranges entirely for less civilized haunts as a result of the powerful search lights on the transcontinental air mail route. A new problem has arisen, however. The slumber of the sheep on the ranges is being disturbed by the bright lights, and the flocks refuse to bed down, but continue feeding during the night.

'Expect Favors or Gratitude From No Nation'-Washington

France, her back to the wall, gladly gave us her note for money that enabled her to continue the war.

We trained 4,000,000 men, sent 2,000,000 to fight for France, and 72,000 never returned.

But France grew cold when we asked her to pay back a quarter of what she owed us.

And on July 11 French soldiers paraded in protest against France paying anything at all.

Two World Court Exits

Better Get Out Than Be Booted

As Senator Hiram Johnson has pointed out, the United States has two exits from the dilemma into which gag rule in the Senate forced it last January.

It can be blackballed out of the World Court or it can save its dignity, self-respect and honorable traditions by itself withdrawing.

There can be no doubt as to which of these exits would meet with the larger measure of popular favor.

At no time has a majority of the American people desired to be embroiled in the feuds, hates and chicanery of the Old World.

Support for our entry into the Geneva tribunal has come in the main from two sources:

- 1-The international banking group and their business following—a clear prompting of selfish greed based on expectancy of profit; and
- 2-Sentimentalists captivated by catch-word rhetoric and blind to considerations of a practical nature.

These two groups have exerted by clamor and skillful propaganda an influence quite out of proportion to their numbers.

Today, however, their power stands shattered in face of the revelations of Europe's real attitude toward this country.

Not a corporal's guard in the Senate or out would now vote to insert Uncle Sam's purse in the jeopardy of a European-controlled tribunal.

Why, then, should the gigantic mistake of last January be left uncorrected?

Why drift?

Under Your Hat

A German astronomer tells us that our solar system is the exact center of the universe, with countless constellations stretching away into space on either hand.

At least, as he looks from his observatory, it seems so to him.

In a like manner a bug on a blade of grass in a meadow might peer near-sightedly from side to side and then stand up on its hind legs and comb its whiskers (or do whatever bugs do when they have important news to impart), and then solemnly announce to assembled fellow bugs:

"The blade of grass upon which I stand is the exact center of all blades of grass in the meadow. I can see as many on one side as on the other."

For in truth our longest telescope has, in heavenly proportions, little more than bug-sight in peering at the celestial bodies which stream into infinity.

But before this dizzying endlessness of space men find comfort in thinking of themselves and their little solar system as the axis of the universe.

The thought that We Are It is a wonderfully comforting one.

The Stabler Method

Since its foundation 56 years ago the French Republic has had an average of nearly two Cabinets a year. Indeed, the changes have been so rapid that the exact number is in dispute, as is the number of times Briand has been Premier.

The French Cabinet, one may say, is hired by the day. Unlike our Cabinet with a fixed term, it cannot plan far ahead.

Our more rigid system has been criticized, but it has one advantage—it works.

Rats

In Bagdad, ancient city of the East, twenty people a day are dying of the bubonic plague.

Rats, driven from their holes by the recent floods, have been the cause of the epidemic.

It is the rat, which is the only dread plague—and only one.

An important element in sanitation is the campaign against rodents.

A city on the west coast appropriated something like fifty thousand dollars not long ago for the purpose of combating the menace of these disease-carrying pests.

And it was money well spent.

MUCH INFORMATION REALLY PREJUDICE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

CHAPLAIN RAYMOND C. KNOX, in an address at Columbia University, said that men and women are needed to interpret the discoveries of modern science and to overcome prejudice against them.

The principal business of a college is a continual war upon prejudice. A college is an institution to defend the open mind.

It has a hospitable attitude toward every question and is willing to receive and weigh any kind of evidence.

Most of our alleged information is really prejudice. It consists of judgment which we have not formed ourselves, but which we have taken from others ready made. A college is an institution whose purpose is to train us to form our own conclusions and examine our own evidence.

A university does not stand for the war of knowledge upon ignorance so much as it does for the war of knowledge upon prejudice.

The uneducated mind is not empty. It is quite as full as the educated mind. The only trouble is that it is full of weeds, and education is quite as much the pulling up of these weeds and clearing the ground as it is the planting of useful crops of information.

The uneducated mind is not a blank, but it is full of all sorts of timorology. The effort is to get rid of this and to substitute that which is reliable.

The greatest enemy to progress is not ignorance and vacuity; it is wrong information.

STORY OF AUDUBON'S LIFE FASCINATING

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

An exhibition recently opened at the American Museum of Natural History in New York, recalls the romantic figure and story of Audubon, whose name among naturalists has something of the fascination of that of Napoleon among warriors.

Where now in the Middle West and South, on modern highways and through chains of villages and cities, the swift automobile carries thousands of joyous excursionists, John Audubon wandered slowly and alone through endless forests of primitive trees, more than a hundred years ago, studying and picturing the native birds of this New World, many of which were strange to the eyes of the white man.

Years and years he continued his wanderings alone with Nature and her creatures, and when at times he emerged into the world of his fellow men, he was able to spread the spark of his enthusiasm as widely as the wings of a bird.

It was his passion to introduce to his fellow men the birds of America, and he came to him at the rate of $1,000 a copy.

Fascinating Story

One of the most interesting books to read is the story of Audubon's life.

His life was a story of adventure, his years in the New World were fresh and untraveled, and his personality drew a halo over his work.

Out of the depths of his vast knowledge of the birds of America, a new chapter in the story of the Old World. Many of the birds in his book were found in America.

The famous story said of Audubon's "Birds of North America" that it was the most magnificent monument that art has yet raised to Nature.

For Audubon was an artist as well as a naturalist. He was a man of letters, a planter in Louisiana, his father's plantation in Louisiana, his father's being a retired French naval officer and his mother a Creole.

He had studied under the great painter, David, in Paris, and he colored his life-size drawings of birds with exquisite skill.

Many of them mounted separately in frames came to adorn parlors and libraries and were now in the hands of private collectors.

Audubon was a striking example of the truth of the old saying: "As the apple falls, so the fruit is inclined." When but a child on his father's plantation in Louisiana, he is said to have exhibited a passion for the study of birds.

When he returned to the States, he had the proper conditions for the development of a great ornithologist.

Add to this that the country was a new land, a land of new nature, thickly clothed with forests, and rich in native birds.

Traveled Much

The extent of Audubon's wanderings in search of birds is surprising.

After his first expedition in the central forests, which he began about 1816, when he was thirty years old, he went to England and France and Spain, and he was in the West Indies, Florida, through Canada to Labrador.

When he returned to the States, he was a man of fine manners and of high character, and he was a man of letters, a planter in Louisiana, his father's plantation in Louisiana, his father's

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

OLD Tyrannosaurus was a pillar of society.

He lived in a nice cozy Mesozoic swamp some hundred or forty million years ago. He looked like a monkey wrench and he didn't count his calories. He was about forty feet long and potpourri in proportion.

Forty feet of lumbering sinews is no mean asset—no wonder he hauled it all over the earth principally on wheels. And look it he did! He ruled the roost. No one ever gave him the slightest heck. According to all reports, he was as temperamental as an opera singer and as determined to have his own way. With a shape, constitution and disposition like that, you'd think he'd be going strong. But he would still be going strong. But he would still be going strong. But he would still be going strong.

He had no use for new fangled ideas. New families and new theories were in the Mesozoic swamp, but Tyrannosaurus would have nothing to do with them. "What was good enough for my father is good enough for me," he'd say. "I'm not going to change my mind."

He was a success, ain't he?

Success! Obvious!

And no one could answer that argument, for it was obvious to all that Mr. Tyrannosaurus was about the most successful thing on the landscape.

Now, at this time, up in the barren hinterland, far from the flourishing swamps, there lived a humble little Tyrannosaurus, who looked like an undernourished rat. He was scraggy and weak and seemingly weak. He had no rating at all in the Din and Brachiosaurus of Mesozoic society. But for all that he had an agile brain. He needed it.

Many times he had said to himself: "I'm not going to change my mind."

A REAL Vacation

From Brockton to Arizona and Back in 23 Days, at a Cost (for TWO) of Only $275

Earl and Kenneth Long, of the Brockton Y. M. C. A., "felt the fever coming on," late in June, counted up the plenty bankroll for vacation purposes, found it to be fraternal, and on June 25th headed for the Grand Canyon, in Arizona.

When they returned to Brockton, one day this week, they found that their 23-day journey by automobile had cost them $275, or approximately $8 apiece per day.

They traveled 6,600 miles. They carried a small tent, with camping equipment. In Colorado, they made the 18-mile drive to the summit of Pike's Peak in three hours.

Three years ago, Earl Long motored all the way to the Pacific. This year, he says, he found the condition of the Lincoln Highway very much improved, but from Massachusetts all the way to the Mississippi the roads generally are in best of shape. "Beyond the Mississippi, being almost entirely of dirt, they are very poor." Congressmen from

New England should make a note of this and be ready with their aid. We need MORE transcontinental highways, and good ones. East and West MUST be joined by great roads that will make long-distance traveling comfortable, healthful and satisfying.

For the observant young American, a journey across the United States, living close to nature, paying one's own way, ought to be at least as good as a year in school. The Messrs.

Long had a wonderful vacation at small cost. They must have interested a great many Westerners in NEW ENGLAND, too.
